

March 2018

NSW Coordinators Update

There is an Eating Disorder Coordinator located in nearly every local health district across NSW.

The eating disorder coordinators are working with their local implementation committees to establish and improve pathways to treatment for people with eating disorders locally.

They are available to provide clinical consultation and support to local teams treating people with eating disorders. They may also provide clinical supervision for NSW Health staff, can direct you to where to find helpful resources and guidelines, as well as coordinate trainings to up skill professionals in the treatment of eating disorders.

In 2017, we welcomed the following members to the NSW Eating Disorder Coordination Team:

- Prue Wright, Western Sydney LHD
- Vanessa Allen, Illawarra Shoalhaven LHD
- Angela Farrell, Murrumbidgee LHD
- Sarah Reynolds, South East Sydney LHD
- Susan Hart, St Vincent's Hospital Network

Congratulations also to Meg Vickery from Western NSW LHD and Ute Morris from Mid North Coast LHD who were officially appointed into permanent Coordinator positions.

Recently, the team was joined by Monique Perkins as Coordinator for Southern NSW LHD and Marcellinus Kim as Coordinator for Sydney LHD.

Find out more about the NSW Eating Disorder Coordinators here.

